Dr. McGuire, continuing his account of his trip, said that while in England he had the pleasure of seeing 30,000 English soldiers participate in a sham battle, led on the one side by the Duke of Commanght and on the other by Major-General Lord Methuen. The Doctor received an invitation to attend this from Fleid-Marshal General Wolseley, who addressed him a personal letter and invited him to come down to Farnborough, where the troops were massed, and tell him (Wolseley) something about "the greatest man the world ever produced." PRETTY SADIE HAS GONE.

Students Give Her Money, and She Starts Back to Washington.

Pretty, petite, peculiar Sadie Thomas the young woman who came here from Washington some weeks ago, and was arrested on the charge of being a per-son of unsound mind, and was after-wards discharged from custody and given quarters at the Faith Home, on Four-teenth street, has shaken the dust of Richmond off her dainty feet and returned to the national capital.

After causing much comment upon the streets by riding around upon a bicycle constantly, and acting very mysteriously, both upon the thoroughfares and at Ford's Hotel, where she was stopping, Miss Sadie caused some per-sons to suspect that she was not as well-balanced as the law requires that people shall be who walk about. Hence she was taken in cudody by Officers Tomlinsen and Gibson. A commission of lunacy was held over her, and she was pronounced sane. She was then taker to the Faith Home, where she remained until yesterday. It is said that some students made up a small purse for the young lady, and that with this sh started back to Washington. Her fund gave out, however, when she got to Ashland, and there she left the train. She more money and sent on to Washington. The Dispatch received the following pecial from its Ashland correspondent
